What's New in the Okdo Image To Doc Converter?

===== Okdo Image to Doc Converter is a simple piece of software that aims to provide a solution to this problem. It enables you to convert various types of images to the DOC file format, with the help of Microsoft Word. It offers an Optical Character Recognition feature, available in multiple languages, allowing you to extract text from image files. The program supports a large number of input formats, and all of its functions are easily accessible and self-explanatory. Convert numerous files at once Okdo Image to Doc Converter allows you to load and process any number of files in one operation. It offers support for a broad range of image types, including JPG, BMP, GIF, PNG, WMF and TIFF. These can be added individually or all at once, as you can select a certain folder and import all the image files present within it. Alternatively, you can drag and drop items directly from your file explorer. However, you cannot save content extracted from multiple images to a single output document. Choose OCR language and customize page layout The built-in Optical Character Recognition function comes equipped with multiple language files, enabling you to process documents obtained from numerous sources. You can also customize the page size of the output document, either by choosing a preset or modifying the width and height values manually. Additionally, it is possible to alter the size of page margins. Save jobs and organize output files Okdo Image to Doc Converter can create a subfolder for each processed item, making it easier to locate the created documents. The application can also save the current file list so that you can load and convert them quickly at a later date. All in all, Okdo Image to Doc Converter is a useful application that can be used to extract text content from images and save it to Microsoft Word DOC files. It is easy-to-use but offers a rather limited array of functions. Keywords:
