All of them are good to an extent, but they have some common weaknesses. Our friends over at Discreet Password Technologies have come up with a great solution to them all. Here is what Discreet Password Technologies is all about: We all need to have passwords on our devices to keep track of them securely. Whether it's your cell phone, computer, tablet, or even your computer network. We use them to keep our valuable stuff safe and protected. To avoid hassles and forgetfulness, we use login accounts on various devices. Sometimes, we even use a random code for our login account. But that's the weakest point of every login account. If
